FIRST AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE

All claims raised, all allegations made, and all causes of action asserted in the Complaint against SCA fail to state a cause of action upon which relief can be granted.

SECOND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE

The Complaint should be dismissed because, at all times relevant hereto, SCA acted in good faith and did not violate any right that may be secured to Plaintiff under any federal, state or local laws, rules, regulations or guidelines.

THIRD AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE

Any and all actions taken by SCA with regard to Plaintiff were based on legitimate, nondiscriminatory business reasons, unrelated to Plaintiff's race or national origin.

FOURTH AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE

Plaintiff's claims for damages are barred, in whole or in part, because of his failure to mitigate his purported damages.

FIFTH AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE

Assuming, arguendo, while vigorously denying, that SCA injured Plaintiff, Plaintiff has not demonstrated and cannot demonstrate facts sufficient to warrant compensatory, punitive or exemplary damages.

SIXTH AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE

Assuming, arguendo, while vigorously denying, that SCA engaged in any unlawful conduct in relation to Plaintiff's employment, SCA still would have engaged in the same course of conduct for legitimate, non-discriminatory reasons.

SEVENTH AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE

In or about August 2007, SCA learned that, while Plaintiff was employed by SCA, Plaintiff had violated SCA policies and Plaintiff's written agreement with SCA by using SCA's email system to distribute confidential documents belonging to SCA, including highly-sensitive risk management reports, to third parties not affiliated with SCA and by otherwise disclosing SCA's confidential information without SCA's knowledge or authorization. SCA also learned that, prior to his departure from SCA, Plaintiff took confidential documents belonging to SCA, without authorization. Plaintiff has refused SCA's requests to return its property. Had SCA known of Plaintiff's misconduct in taking, disclosing, and refusing to return highly confidential and proprietary materials of SCA, it would have terminated Plaintiff's employment for violation of its policies, Plaintiff's express agreement with SCA, and his fiduciary duties to SCA. Under the after-acquired evidence doctrine, Plaintiff's damages, if any, are cut off as of the date SCA discovered Plaintiff's misconduct.

EIGHTH AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE

The causes of action alleged or alluded to in the Complaint are "frivolous, unreasonable and groundless," within the meaning of Christiansburg Garment Co. v. EEOC, 434 U.S. 412, 422 (1978), and, accordingly, SCA should recover all costs and attorneys' fees incurred in defending this action.

NINTH AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE

Plaintiff's claims are barred, in whole or in part, by the applicable statute of limitations.

TENTH AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE

Plaintiff's claims are barred by the doctrine of unclean hands.

ELEVENTH AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE

Plaintiff's claims of retaliation are barred because he did not engage in protected activity, as required under the relevant statutes, including, but not limited to, Section 2000e-3 of Title VII.

SCA has insufficient knowledge or information upon which to form a belief as to whether it may have additional, as yet unstated, separate defenses available. SCA reserves the right to assert additional separate defenses in the event discovery indicates, or SCA otherwise becomes aware, that additional defenses would be appropriate.

WHEREFORE, Defendant SCA respectfully requests the Court enter a judgment:

(1) dismissing the Complaint in its entirety with prejudice against Schanfield;

(2) awarding SCA its costs, expenses and attorneys' fees incurred in defending this action; and

(3) granting such other and further relief as the Court deems just and proper.

COUNTERCLAIMS

8. Schanfield continued in the position of Chief Internal Auditor until May 21, 2007, when his employment with SCA was terminated for performance reasons.

9. At various times during his employment with SCA, including, but not limited to, April 23, 2007, April 26, 2007 and April 30, 2007, Schanfield sent SCA's confidential or proprietary information, through SCA's computer system, to his personal email address at "aschanfield@verizon.net." 10. 11. In addition, on or about May 21, 2007, Schanfield asked his assistant to make a copy of SCA's Risk Assessment Review and, upon information and belief, left SCA premises with the Review.

12. The SCA documents misappropriated by Schanfield contain extensive confidential or proprietary information about SCA's financial and legal positions gathered for Schanfield's audit of all SCA's branches, subsidiaries and other entities in Canada, the United States, Mexico, Central and South America.

13. Among the information contained in the confidential or proprietary documents misappropriated by Schanfield is information regarding business plans and actual performance of SCA, business risk, legal exposure and financial information. The documents also contain information derived from Schanfield's confidential interviews, in his capacity as Chief Internal Auditor, of over 100 SCA employees, who were encouraged by SCA's management to candidly discuss their operations with Schanfield.

14. Upon information and belief, Schanfield disclosed and communicated SCA's confidential and proprietary information to unauthorized third parties for purposes other than the performance of his duties as an employee of SCA. Upon information and belief, Schanfield disclosed and communicated SCA's confidential and proprietary information to his counsel for purposes of obtaining a monetary settlement or to further his interests in litigation.

15. On August 23, 2007, SCA's outside counsel sent Schanfield's counsel a letter requesting that Schanfield desist from disclosing and return to SCA all of the confidential and proprietary documents currently in his possession.

16. Again on November 29, 2007, SCA's outside counsel wrote to Schanfield's counsel again requesting that all of SCA's confidential and proprietary documents in Schanfield's or his counsel's possession be returned, and that counsel identify any documents from the files of SCA received from Schanfield so that SCA could determine whether Schanfield's unauthorized disclosures had violated SCA's attorney-client privilege.

17. Schanfield's counsel responded by refusing to return or identify such documents, and threatening SCA with a retaliation claim if it sought to pursue its legal remedies in this court.

18. To date, none of SCA's confidential and proprietary documents have been returned to SCA or to SCA's outside counsel.

AS AND FOR A FIRST COUNTERCLAIM
(Breach of Contract)

19. SCA repeats and realleges each and every allegation and averment set forth in Counterclaim paragraphs 1 through 18 as though set forth here in full.

20. Schanfield violated the Agreement by removing, without SCA's consent or authorization, copies of documents containing confidential and proprietary information from SCA's premises and failing and refusing to return such documents after the end of his employment with SCA.

21. Schanfield violated the Agreement by disclosing and communicating, without SCA's consent and authorization, SCA's confidential and proprietary documents and information to persons or entities to which such disclosure was not authorized.

22. Schanfield further violated the Agreement, and continues to violate the Agreement, by using SCA's confidential or proprietary information for purposes other than the performance of his duties to SCA.

23. As a direct result of Schanfield's breach of contract, SCA has suffered and continues to suffer substantial damages.

AS AND FOR A SECOND COUNTERCLAIM
(Breach of Fiduciary Duty and Duty of Loyalty)

24. SCA repeats and realleges each and every allegation and averment set forth in Counterclaim paragraphs 1 through 23 as though set forth here in full.

25. An employee is obligated to be loyal to his employer, to refrain from acting in any manner inconsistent with his agency or trust, and is bound to exercise the utmost good faith and loyalty in the performance of his duties.

26. As an officer of SCA and a member of SCA's senior management, and as SCA's Chief Internal Auditor, Schanfield owed SCA a fiduciary duty and a duty of loyalty to act, at all times, in the best interests of SCA.

27. In violation of his fiduciary duty and his duty of loyalty, Schanfield misappropriated SCA's confidential and proprietary information and disclosed such information to his counsel for his benefit and to SCA's detriment.

28. Because of his violations of his fiduciary duties to SCA, Schanfield forfeited all right to compensation paid to him by SCA during his period of disloyalty.

28. As a result of Schanfield's breach of fiduciary duty and duty of loyalty, SCA has suffered and continues to suffer substantial damages, including, but not limited to, all amounts paid to Schanfield by SCA during his period of disloyalty.

AS AND FOR A THIRD COUNTERCLAIM
(Misappropriation of Trade Secrets)

29. SCA repeats and realleges each and every allegation and averment set forth in Counterclaim paragraphs 1 through 28 as though set forth here in full.

30. During his employment with SCA, Schanfield misappropriated documents and information relating to the audit of the Company, including, but not limited to, preliminary risk assessments and internal audit plans, documents reflecting risk assessment objectives and processes, key competencies and action plans, SCA's Risk Assessment Review, and emails between Schanfield and the Chief Executive and Chief Financial Officers describing areas of potential business and/or legal risk and potential weaknesses in controls that could expose SCA to loss if exploited.

31. These highly confidential documents were created by SCA at great cost and effort and were not known or intended to be known outside of the Company.

32. SCA has limited the disclosure of the information contained in these confidential and proprietary documents to a select group of senior managers who had a need to know such information, and has taken great measures to guard the secrecy of the information.

33. The confidential and proprietary documents misappropriated by Schanfield contain extensive operational, marketing and financial information regarding SCA's business and are of great value to SCA. The unauthorized disclosure of these confidential and proprietary documents would be of great value to SCA's competitors, who could use the knowledge of SCA's business plans and finances to their competitive and strategic advantage.

34. The confidential and proprietary documents misappropriated by Schanfield also contain highly sensitive analyses of SCA's internal controls and procedures and of potential weaknesses in the control environment, the unauthorized disclosure of which could result in injury to SCA.

32. Because of the confidential and proprietary nature of the information contained therein, the documents misappropriated by Schanfield constitute trade secrets under New York law.

33. Upon information and belief, Schanfield disclosed the confidential and proprietary documents to persons outside of SCA, including, but not limited to, his counsel.

34. As a result of Schanfield's misappropriation of SCA's trade secrets, SCA has suffered and continues to suffer substantial damages.

WHEREFORE, SCA demands judgment against Schanfield as follows:

- (i) compensatory damages for the amounts SCA has been and will be caused to spend to prevent misuse of its confidential and proprietary documents and communications and to obtain the return of misappropriated documents in an amount to be determined at trial;
- (ii) restitution damages for the amounts SCA paid in salary and in benefits to Schanfield after his first breach of his fiduciary duty and duty of loyalty;
- (iii) punitive damages for Schanfield's willful and deliberate misappropriation and disclosure of SCA's confidential and proprietary information;
- (iv) attorneys' fees, disbursements and other costs;
- (v) a permanent injunction requiring the return of any document Schanfield created or received in his capacity as an employee of SCA and prohibiting Schanfield or his agents from disclosing to any third party the substance or content of any confidential and/or privileged document wrongfully removed from SCA's premises or from SCA's electronic files;

(vi) such other relief as the Court deems just and proper.
